One of the largest crowds that ever but we have also been learning what taxed the seating capacity of Slater Memorial Hall gathered there Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the graduation exercises of the class of 1915 were held. 1915 were held.

Seventy-six boys and girls assembled in the Academy for the last time as students, shortly before four o'clock and from there marched across the school grounds to Slater Hall, where seats had been reserved for them in the front rows. The relatives and friends of the class began to gather as early as 3:15 o'clock and from then on a steady stream filed through the doors of Slater Hall and before 4 o'clock only standing room remained. 4 o'clock only standing room remained.

Mr. Palmer and Members of the Board of Trustees:
To you first of all, is due our gratitude, for we owe the privileges which we have enjoyed here to your appreciation of the higher things in Me we have enjoyed here to your appreciation of the higher things in life and to the interest which you have materially shown in maintaining the Norwich Free Academy. We are happy because we have enjoyed the opportunities which you have made possible for us. Although we recognize that we are but one in a succession of classes that have such opportunities, yet we are grateful for our share in them and as we bid you farewell we thank you most sincerely.

Mr. Tirrell:

The years which we have spent.uner your supervision have been both helpful and happy for us. As time goes on, we may come to realize more fully their importance in furnishing us an equipment for life. Not only have we been studying from books, the best that the world has thought,

CATARRH LEADS TO CONSUMPTION

Catarrh is as much a blood disease as scrofula or rheumatism. It may be relieved, but it cannot be removed by simply local treatment. It breaks down the general health, weakens the lung tissues, and leads to consumption.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is so successful in the treatment of catarrh that it is known as the best remedy for this disease. It purifies the blood. Ask your druggist for it.

structions, so that you may ever be as proud of us as we have been of you. As I bid your farewell in behalf of my class I thank you for your part in developing our deeper standing and our higher ideals. Parents and Friends:

To our parents who have made ev-ery sacrifice for us, we wish to express our appreciation. We realize that we can never fully repay the debt of gratitude which we owe to you, but we hope that the education which we have gained through your help, may make us more useful than we should have otherwise been.

We feel grateful also to the friends who have from time to time shown an interest in our work and have thus encouraged us. We know that you will welcome us as we enter into the broader life of greater mental and moral responsibilities.

Classmates:

As we leave school today there are two feelings uppermost in our hearts. We are joyful because we are taking another step into the big world, with the lessons learned at the Norwich Free Academy as a foundation for whatever attainments we may gain hereafter in life. But over against this feeling of joy is one regret, We are sad to leave the scene of so many pleasant happenings, where we have played and worked together, and have thus come not only to know but also to appreciate and love each other. It is hard to part but we may still keep up the pleasant memories of the past. lassmates:

As I bid you farewell I wish you the best that life has to order and may the world be better for our living in it because we practice our motto: to Excell; Ever to Be Noble."

Planting the lvy.

Following the graduation exercises the planting of the ivy took place at the south end of the front of the Academy. Edward Raymond Ewing delivered the ivy oration as follows

Classmates:—As we prepare to leave this dear old school of ours, in which we have spent four long, happy years, and so out into the wide world. years, and go out into the wide world, we wish to leave with our school some living memory. Today we plant this ivy. For many years to come it will live to symbolize our loyalty to alma

Just as the ivy begins its life, a tender little plant, so do we start on our careers in the simplicity of youth. But the ivy is destined to grow and spread, increasing in beauty and use-fulness. So we trust it will be with As its roots thrust downward and its branches upward, so are we always to struggle toward the heights and make ourselves and the world better day by day. The ivy does not be-come large and tall over night. It takes years and years. So we must not give up hope if we do not imme-diately attain full success. Remember that as this ivy grows but slowly so it is only natural that we rise, gradually and do our best as we look forward, true Americans that we are, over the years to our goals. We must bear in mind that the world expects more of us than of those who have had fewer advan-tages, and, although we cannot hope

The leaves of the ivy, like ourselves, serve many purposes. serve many purposes. Sometimes they cover up an ugly wall, making it beautiful. Again, when growing thickly on a trellis, they form a protection from the heat of the midday sun and comfort some weary person In winter, when one sees the ivy it looks dead and lifeless. But we think of it as a glorious, green, thriving plant of the summer time. Thus when a passerby looks at this vine he will not think solely of the plant bu of the class which planted it, and he will think of its members as living high, worthy, useful lives, such as the world needs more than all else.

Today history is in the making a never in past years. Educated men and women, conscientious, sagacious, and prudent, will be needed as never before to fill places of trust in this and other nations. Let us to the front.
